

Tom,

I would like to comment on the seminar Saturday. It was a real shot in the arm for me. I need more boldness in approaching others about Christ. I wonder how many people are out there who never have been confronted about their salvation.

In fact, after I was saved in 1971, I wondered why no one had ever told me about why Jesus came to earth, alternatively, why I needed Him. I used to believe that when I die, that would be it. I never knew of eternal life.

This is a great way to approach people without offending them. When we went to Tempe, I could see first hand how well this method works. Most of the people seemed to enjoy the interaction with us. Even Todd, who was acting hostile, calmed down when I chatted with him. It seems to please him when I told him that I would be praying for him. Had I not gone with your team, I would have missed this opportunity to pray for this misled lost kid.

I hope to go again with your team in the near future.

God bless,

June
