

Tom,

Ok, here goes...after the seminar and then going on the street I really became aware of the lost souls just wandering around Tempe. Other times when I have been to Tempe I saw the people but the other night I really SAW them and how lost they were just walking aimlessly up and down the street searching for something that would make an impression on their lives, some answer to their feeling of uselessness or emptiness. That one young man you talked to will have the memory of the questions you asked and may be the beginning of his heart being stirred up and pricked...only God knows for sure! At least his night will have been memorable! Thanks for the experience!
