

Tom,

I had an incredible discussion with a plumber yesterday. We sat at the table for at least an hour discussing our faith. He knows the Lord, but stays in the Catholic church. I would have given anything to have you here with us as he could rebut everything I said quite successfully. He doesn't believe in the leadership of the church, but does believe in the communion aspect and Mary and the saints. Talk about a devote Catholic -- this guy had me going. I gave him the Way of the Master web site and the track with the road kill still in the road. He promised to read it and we are going to try to keep in touch. He gave me his number and he took mine.

Had it not been for the Way of The Master Seminar we attended last week, I know I would have not been as open. I am gaining confidence as this was the third major encounter I had in the last two days. Thanks for your encouragement and enthusiasm and the teaching you have imparted, to spread the word of Jesus.

*Thanks for all you do for His kingdom,
Pat*
